TRAINS OUR OUR.

Merchants and business men in the Harrisonburg section are up in arms against the Southern Railway Company. An order was received yesterday from headquarters in Alexandria cutting off both the through freight trains running above. between Harrisonburg and the Potomac yards, One through daily freight from Bultimore and another local from Strasburg are all that is left to serve the Harrisonburg end of the valley. The merchants declara that the removal of the trains will seriously hamper trade relations with Baltimore and other points, Points between Harrisonburg and Strasburg will be the worst sufferers.

Heretofore it has been the custom for the Strasburg local to take freight off the Potomac yard train and distribute it along the 50 mile stretch between Har- about half- past two o'clock on the prerisonourg and Strasburg. MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE Mr. S. G. Brent, commonwealth's attorney, closed the argument for the state shortly before 5 o'clock festerday afternoon in the trial, in the Corporation Court, of Henry Smith, colored, for complicity in the murder of Walter F. Schultz, and a few minutes later the case was given to the jury.

After deliberating about an hour the jary were escorted to supper, court having in the meantime taken a recess until 7:30 o'clock.

The jury returned to the court room in about an hour at which time a number of persons, mostly white, were on the pavement anxious to get into the room out of the biting wind, also for the purpose of hearing the verdict. The door was locked and a policemen was standing within. Comparatively few were allowed to enter.

At 7:45 o'clock the jury entered the court room and asked a definition of the crime of murder, and its different de-

Judge Barley read the section in the code relating to murder.

The jury retired and at 8:15 there was a knock on the door of their room, and when the city sergeant responded he was informed that the jury had reached a verdict.

Judge Barley was not in the room at the time, but he was quickly summoned and the jury entered.

After the roll had been called, the foreman, J. D. Jones, handed the deputy clerk the following ver lic': "We, the jary, fine Henry Smith guilty of murder in the first degree." The jory was then polled and each nember announced that the above was his verdict. Mr. R. D. Brumback moved an arrest of judgment and the setting aside of the verdict as contrary to the law and evidence in the case.

Judge Barley aunounced that he would hear arguments on the motion at the next term of the court, and he ordered that Smith be returned to jail. The condemned man manifested no unessiness after the verdict had been read, and later walked away with the officers apparently in as undisturbed frame of mind or when he entered the court bouse. In discharging the jury Judge Barley thanked the members for their services. They left for their homes in Charlottesville this morning.

Smith still asserts that he is innocent of the crime with which he is charged; Smith sent a note to Judge Barley oday, but the latter being out of the city, the contents could not be learned. It is said that the condemned man asks to be sent to the jail in Alexandria county or to Richmond. A verdict of murder in the first degree having been returned against him, there is no necessity for taking him out of the city. The note is b lieved to contain something more imporant than is referred to

STILL A MYSTERY.

Four years ago today the mutilated body of George N. Curtin was brought to the surface by two men who were engaged in dragging for an auchor in the dock adjoining the slip of the Washington and Alexandria ferry. The young man had been missing for two weeks, and the suthorities from that day to this have been unable to trace him since he was last seen alive on the front step of a house on Princess street, near Lee, moval of the freights its looks as though | pects were taken in custody during sevthough the murderer or murderers were in the net, but all proved to be cold trails, and the brutal murder and subsequent one of Alexandria's most mysterious murder mysterious. The manner in which Cartin had been butchered showed that more than one person was engaged in his murder.
